

ENTHUSIASTIC BOYS' MEETING

Auditorium of First Baptist Church Filled Sunday Afternoon by Seymour's Future Citizens. SEYMOUR'S NEED OF Y. M. C. A. Emphasized by the Attendance and Enthusiasm of the Boys and Young Men Who Heard Mr. Watkins.

If attendance and enthusiasm are a correct index of the demand for a Y. M. C. A. in Seymour, then the attendance and enthusiasm of the boys and young men Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist Church indicated a very strong demand for such an institution. The church auditorium was filled with boys and young men with a few of the older men, who were interested in the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. It was an inspiring sight to see the interest and attention which was manifested from the very beginning of the meeting; and all through the hour the boys as well as the men gave the closest attention to the excellent address by Rev. C. E. Watkins.

Mr. Watkins took for his subject, "There was a lad" based on the story of Christ feeding the five thousand. In all the multitude which followed the Savior only one person seemed to have had forethought enough to provide some food for himself and in the search for food this lad was found with five loaves and two small fishes. Jesus said, "Bring him to me." The lad with his scanty supply under the blessing of Jesus Christ supplied food for a great multitude on the mountain-side. No one can forecast the possibilities wrapped up in any boy's jacket. Fifteen and twenty years hence the boys who were gathered Sunday will be the men who will be making the future Seymour and who will be filling responsible positions in the home, the church, the city, the state, the nation and the world. The men of today owe an important obligation to the boys to see that they are kept clean and developed into the right sort of future citizens.

Mr. Watkins related the story of Paul Lawrence Dunbar, whom he regards as the greatest genius of the negro race, the only colored man who has read before Queen Victoria and whom she recalled a third time in order that she might hear him again. When Mr. Dunbar was in the Steele High School Dayton, Ohio, he was told by the principal of the school that it was no use for him to go on with his school work for he could never accomplish anything. D. A. Sinclair, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., got hold of Dunbar and gave him encouragement to go on with his work and by persistent application Dunbar reached the prominent place which he occupies as one of the greatest men the negro race has produced.

Mr. Watkins urged every man to get a copy of Fred B. Smith's book, "Men Wanted" and read it carefully. Mr. Smith is national secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and this book is the concentration of his life work in this important field.

The Y. M. C. A. work is three sided, dealing with the spiritual side, the intellectual side and physical side of the boys and young men. Each of these sides is an important part of every young man's life and under careful training and supervision each of them contributes its part to make the highest type of citizenship out of the boy.

Mr. Watkins emphasized three things toward which every boy should strive: (1) be clean; (2) be honest; (3) be busy. The world has no place of honor for the man who is not clean in thought and deed; the world soon discovers a man who is not square and honest in his dealings and will have little to do with him; the world has need of the men who can be busy, who have no time to kill, but who are continually on the alert, who use the opportunities which are constantly presented.

The address was heard with marked attention and interest by everyone who was present. Superintendent J. A. Linke presided at the meeting. He is chairman of the boys' work in the Committee of One Hundred and rightly feels that the Sunday meeting was an emphatic argument in favor of a Y. M. C. A. movement in the city of Seymour.

FAME AND FORTUNE May Be Won By Former Seymour Man Through Simple Device.

Charles H. Rutherford, formerly of Seymour but now a prominent attorney in Jerome, Arizona, may make a fortune and at the same time win the gratitude and blessings of the women of the civilized world. A recent issue of the Jerome Copper Belt contained a picture of Attorney Rutherford and said:

A neat and efficient hat fastener for ladies' hats has been devised by Hon. C. H. Rutherford, a prominent attorney here, who has applied for letters of patent and been advised that his invention is patentable. To a representative of the Belt, who called at his law office today, Judge Rutherford explained its efficiency and simplicity, showing how it can be operated quickly, and its numerous advantages over the present hat pin now used.

Such a device is bound to insure a ready market, as it is impossible for the wearer to jab her head or the face of some innocent by-stander, besides protecting the hat from the unsightly holes made by the pin now in use. Judge Rutherford expects to complete arrangements for the manufacture and sale of his device in the near future.

Seymour Won.

Another good game of basket ball was played in the gymnasium Saturday night between the local team and Madison. Seymour won by a score of 24 to 19. The game was practically cinched at the end of the first half. The score at that time stood 20 to 9 in Seymour's favor. Then Madison began playing a strong game and excitement for a time was high.

Irwin Pumphrey of the local team was laid out of the game by injuring his knee. The Seymour team will go to Franklin Friday evening.

SYSTEM OF THIEVERY.

On the B. & O. Southwestern Broken Up By Detectives.

Through a little strategy on the part of William J. Wainman of this city, captain of the B. & O. Southwestern detective force, and E. N. Boileau, another detective, a system of thievery has been broken up on a part of the Illinois division of the road. Parts of consignments of merchandise to towns between Flora and Shawneetown, Ill., had been missing for some time and after a most careful investigation suspicion fell upon members of a certain train crew.

The arrest of the crew was made just after the train had arrived at the boundary at White county, Ill. Another train crew that had been concealed on the train took charge at once while the old crew was taken to Carmi, Ill., where J. W. Pourhot, a brakeman whose home is at Flora, Ill., confessed to the part he had played in the robbery. Pourhot went into detail and told how he had taken shoes from the car that were billed to merchants in Mill Shoals and Enfield, Ill. The other members of the crew were W. L. Pope, conductor, of Flora; C. E. Gardner and G. H. Joy, brakemen. The men when questioned separately stoutly denied their guilt but later admitted that they were responsible for the disappearance of some of the goods. Pourhot and Gardner were held to await the action of the grand jury and the others were given fines of $50 each for having received stolen goods, and according to detectives will be instantly dismissed from the service of the road. All four of the men are known to Washington trainmen who are employed on the Illinois division.

BOTTORFF:—Thomas J. Bottorff died at 11 a. m. Sunday at his home at Kenwood Springs, a suburb of St. Louis. The body was brought to Seymour this morning by the family and taken to the home of M. F. Bottorff. The funeral services were conducted at the Christian church at 3 o'clock this afternoon by Rev. G. M. Shotts. Burial was at Riverview.

The death of Mr. Bottorff occurred after a long illness. His health was bad when he removed from this county two years ago. Since Thanksgiving 1910 he has been very sick much of the time.

Thomas J. Bottorff was born in Clark county, May 28, 1841 and came to this county with his parents in 1846. His life since that time with the exception of the past two years was spent in the vicinity of Cortland. All his active life he was a farmer and was very successful. He was well known throughout the county and stood high in the regard of the people. He was married in 1870 to Miss Olive Roberts of this county who with two children survive; the latter are Bert and Miss Effie Bottorff of St. Louis. Two brothers, Jacob of Cortland, and M. F. Bottorff of this city and one sister, Mrs. Mary Locke of Iowa, are also living. He had for many years been a member of the Christian church.

The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Bottorff to St. Louis two years ago was in order that they might be near their children who were located there.

Medicine Used in Rural Districts.

Over 35 per cent. of the population of the United States are said to live in rural districts remote from physicians or drug stores and they are obliged to depend upon proprietary medicines to a very great extent.

To the women in these homes, such standard remedies as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound come as a boon and a blessing.

For nearly forty years this splendid medicine, compounded from roots and herbs, has been relieving the women of this country from the worst forms of female ills. Merit alone could have stood such a test.

SUNDAY SERVICES

Importance of Acting Today
Urged by Evangelist
Watkins.

Sunday was another important day in the revival meetings conducted by Evangelist Watkins. At the Sunday School he spoke on the importance of a clean heart, a heart whose sins had been forgiven by the blood of Jesus.

At the morning preaching service he spoke of the duties of the church toward its newly received members, urging the important work which the pastor and people have in caring for and training the new Christians until they become strong and active in Christian work.

At the evening preaching service his subject was "Up from the Depths." He illustrated from the scripture story of Rahab, the harlot, who hid the Israelite spies on the roof of her home at Jericho and aided in their escape from their enemies who were seeking to slay them. She and her household alone were spared in the general slaughter which followed the destruction of the city of Jericho. If God's grace can save the lowest then it can save everyone who is above the lowest. The salvation, which is offered, is free to every man, woman and child who will accept the salvation which Jesus offers and will take it into and make it part of their life. He emphasized the importance of immediate decision. The present is the only time which we can command; the past is gone and the future may not be ours; hence the necessity of acting in the present.

There were eleven confessions during the day at the different services and the crowds filled the auditorium, the night congregation being the largest during the meetings. Mr. Watkins will speak each evening this week and all are invited to hear him preach the gospel and to hear the big chorus choir sing the gospel. Come tonight.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LAUGH EARLY AND OFTEN.

Mirth is God's medicine. Everybody ought to bathe in it.—O. W. Holmes.

Mirth a medicine?

Certainly, and a good one—better than most of the prescriptions of materia medica. It is one of nature's real tonics, a balm for life's bruises, a salve for sorrows, a liniment for groans, a panacea for worry.

Dr. Sanderson says:

"Mirth, cheerfulness, is a better stimulant for the tissues of the body than drugs, which react. Laughter is an actual life giving influence." Another physician says, "Fun is a food and as necessary to wholesomeness as bread."

Therefore—laugh.

We take life too seriously. We do not laugh enough. Or we indulge in a stinging sort of mirth. Some of us laugh so seldom we lose the habit of it.

A laugh is a massage.

Figures of speech aside, a good laugh is a real massage treatment. When you laugh heartily your diaphragm gets busy. In moving rapidly up and down it massages the liver, stirring that organ up to its duty. It affects other organs also.

"Laugh and grow fat" is the shrewd observation of many generations.

The old kings were wise. They hired jesters to make them laugh. And Lycurgus, able lawmaker, set up the god of laughter in the public dining rooms of Sparta.

Laughter is a good buffer.

It is like the shock absorbers folks put in the springs of their automobiles. It helps to carry one easily over the knobs and "thank-you-ma'ms" of life's rugged road. And it reduces friction everywhere.

Laughter is normal.

Good health and physical and mental harmony require that the funmaking propensities should be released. Laughter does that. If these natural propensities are kept back one has an attack of "the blues;" if totally repressed—insanity.

Laugh and succeed.

If you bottle up your visible spirits you paralyze your personality. A cheerful spirit and a hearty laugh smooth out many wrinkles of business. Men and women go every year to premature graves because they have forgotten how to laugh.

Laugh—and stay above ground.

GOING TO BRING OUT THE FACTS

Alleged Case of Injustice Being Investigated.

VALET RAILROADED TO PRISON

It is charged in Reopening the Case Against a Prisoner in New York Penitentiary That Plea of Guilty Was Entered to Crime He Did Not Commit in Order to Shelter Reputation of Woman in Schiff Household.

Dannemora, N. Y., Feb. 12.—For five years a prisoner in Dannemora prison, Folke Engel Brandt, some time valet for Mortimer L. Schiff, son of Jacob H. Schiff, left that institution on the 10:14 train this morning for New York. After a night in the Tombs Brandt will be taken before Supreme Court Justice Gerard, who issued the writ of habeas corpus by which the prisoner's case is to be brought up.

Brandt said that as soon as he reaches New York he will ask to have an interview with District Attorney Whitman. Attorney General Carmody will be present to represent the prosecution in person.

Dannemora has never before seen so much to do made over a prisoner. What with special trains bringing legal documents and their bearers, telegrams by the sheaf, and unlimited long distance telephone calls, the quiet young prisoner with the four white chevrons on the sleeve of his uniform, one for each year he has served, and the white disc above them indicating that he has a perfect record as a prisoner, has been the cause of more excitement in this north country than the most desperate third-termers ever brought here.

Brandt has asserted that he pleaded guilty to a crime he did not commit in order to shelter the reputation of a woman in the Schiff household and that he was promised clemency. Brandt, described as a handsome, attractive man of about twenty-five years, declared at the time of his arraignment and plea to the burglary and assault charge that Mr. Schiff had discharged him from service as valet after his employer had been shown by Mrs. Schiff a letter Brandt had written to her regarding his ambition for a college education. Shortly afterward Brandt entered the Schiff home, met Mr. Schiff, assaulted him with a bowling pin, and two days later was arrested.

In addition to the assault, from which Mr. Schiff suffered no serious injuries, Brandt was charged with the larceny of $200 worth of jewelry. According to the record of the court it has since been alleged that no evidence was produced to show that Brandt forced an entrance to the house, which is necessary for conviction of burglary in the first degree.

MAY REMOVE JUDGE

One of the Probable Effects of Reopening the Brandt Case.

New York, Feb. 12.—Governor Dix will probably pardon Folke E. Brandt before the week is out. The governor feels now that he was imposed upon by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky and others who presented reports to him on the Brandt case.

The pardon will be followed by an investigation by the attorney general to find if improper influences were used in sending the former servant of Mortimer L. Schiff to Clinton for thirty years on a plea of guilty to a crime which the record of the case does not show he committed—burglary in the first degree.

On top of that will be, it is expected, a recommendation from the governor to the state senate that Judge Rosalsky be removed from the bench. Very likely the attorney general will make such representations to the governor as will lead the chief executive to move against Judge Rosalsky.

Governor Dix has taken the initiative toward re-opening the Brandt case. He is acting now under the conviction that he was deceived and misled by persons in whom he had confidence. In that opinion he is supported by the attorney general, to whom the governor has referred all the papers in the Brandt case, and who has already detected a number of suspicious circumstances. The attorney general believes that the courts have been misled and that there was a shocking miscarriage of justice in the commitment of the young Swede.

The attorney general does not propose to drop the case when Brandt goes free. He is satisfied that nothing but a searching public investigation will fit the Brandt affair, and he purposes to direct that investigation against anybody who may appear to have acted improperly.

PAPER BAGS IDEAL FOR INVALID COOKERY.

In invalid cookery the eye must be appealed to, as a dish that is attractive in appearance will be more apt to be tasted; and, tasted, it is up to the cook to make it so savory that not a crumb is left.

When preparing food for the invalid, more pains can be taken, as one dish may be more quickly prepared than one for a family.

Minced Chicken With Toast.—Finely mince the breast of a chicken, add a tablespoonful of cream, the yolk of an egg and a little salt. Lay in a greased paper bag with a small piece of toast. Seal and cook six minutes in a hot oven. Serve in the bag.

Chicken Tea.—Cup up a fowl, break the bones and add two tablespoonfuls of water, seal and place the bag on the rack in the oven. Allow forty-five minutes in a slow oven. Strain and serve.

In paper bag cookery not only is the natural flavor of every article of food preserved, but all undesirable flavors are kept out.

For invalid cookery this is a great point in its favor, as the delicate aroma and flavor of the white meats and those suitable for diet in convalescence are so easily dissipated by cooking.

It was one of our ancient wise men who said "that which pleases the palate nourishes." It is most important that the invalid eat that food which is best for building up and repairing waste.

Filletted Poultry.—Slice a carrot, turnip and an onion; add a little ham, a pinch of sugar and salt, and place in the bottom of a well-buttered bag. Slice the breast of a fowl, lay the slices on the prepared vegetables, sprinkle with melted butter, seal and cook six minutes in a slow oven. Dish the fillets, put the vegetables into a sieve or fruit press, press lightly and pour the gravy over the fillets.

THIS KIDNEY REMEDY GIVES IMMEDIATE RELIEF.

In 1907 and 1908, I was taken very sick with kidney trouble and being afraid of Bright's Disease, went to a prominent physician at Libertyville, Iowa. After doctoring for some time without cure or benefit, I began the use of Swamp-Root and found immediate relief, which urged me to continue the use of the medicine.

After taking several bottles which I bought at Jericho's Drug Store, in Fairfield, I became a well man and can honestly say that I have never had any signs of Bright's Disease or a return of any kidney trouble.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Elam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 30th birthday with a friendly crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. He is a general favorite, a hero and a pioneer in the new gold fields. The dance leads to heavy gambling in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract of the district.

CHAPTER II.—Burning Daylight starts on his trip to deliver the mail with dogs and sledge. He tells his friends that the big Yukon gold strike will soon be on and he intends to be in it at the start. With Indian attendants and dogs he dips over the bank and down the frozen Yukon and in the gray light is gone.

CHAPTER III.

At Sixty Mile they restocked provisions, added a few pounds of letters to their load, and held steadily on. From Forty Mile they had unbroken trail, and they could look forward only to unbroken trail clear to Dyea. Daylight stood it magnificently, but the killing pace was beginning to tell on Kama. His pride kept his mouth shut, but the result of the chilling of his lungs in the cold snap could not be concealed. They traveled till ten o'clock the night they reached Selkirk, and at six next morning they plunged ahead into the next stretch of wilderness of nearly five hundred miles that lay between Selkirk and Dyea. There was no let-up in his pace. Twelve hours a day, six in the twilight and six in the dark, they toiled on the trail. Three hours were consumed in cooking, repairing harnesses, and making and breaking camp, and the remaining nine hours dogs and men slept as if dead.

The time came when Kama was unable to go in the lead and break trail, and it was proof that he was far gone when he permitted Daylight to toll all day at the heavy snowshoe work. Lake by lake they crossed the string of lakes from Marsh to Linderman, and began the ascent of Chilcot. By all rights Daylight should have camped below the last pitch of the pass at the dim end of day; but he kept on and over and down to Sheep Camp, while behind him raged a snow storm that would have delayed him twenty-four hours. This last excessive strain broke Kama completely. In the morning he could not travel. At five, when called, he sat up after a struggle, grunted, and sank back again. Daylight did the camp work of both, harnessed the dogs, and, when ready for the start, rolled the helpless Indian in all three sleeping robes and lashed him on top of the sled. The going was good; they were on their last lap; and he raced the dogs down through Dyea canyon and along the hard-packed trail that led to Dyea post. And running still, Kama groaning on top the load, and Daylight leaping at the geepole to avoid going under the runners of the flying sled, they arrived at Dyea by the sea. True to his promise, Daylight did not stop. An hour's time saw the sled loaded with the ingoing mail and grub, fresh dogs harnessed and a fresh Indian engaged. Kama never spoke from the time of his arrival till the moment Daylight, ready to depart, stood beside him to say good-by. They shook hands.

"You kill um dat damn Indian," Kama said. "Savvee, Daylight? You kill um."

"He'll sure last as far as Pelly," Daylight grinned.

Kama shook his head doubtfully, and rolled over on his side, turning his back in token of farewell.

A crowd filled the Tivoli—the old crowd that had seen Daylight depart two months before; for this was the night of the sixtieth day, and opinion was divided as ever as to whether or not he would compass the achievement. At ten o'clock bets were still being made, though the odds rose, bet by bet, against his success. Down in her heart the Virgin believed he had failed, yet she made a bet of twenty ounces with Charley Bates, against forty ounces, that Daylight would arrive before midnight.

The Time Came When Kama Was Unable to Go in the Lead.

She it was who heard the first yelps of the dogs.

"Listen!" she cried. "It's Daylight!"

There was a general stampede for the door; but when the double storm-doors were thrown wide open, the crowd fell back. They heard the eager whining of dogs, the snap of a dog-whip and the voice of Daylight crying encouragement as the weary animals capped all they had done by dragging the sled in over the wooden floor. They came in with a rush, and with them rushed in the frost, a visible vapor of smoking white, through which their heads and backs showed, as they strained in the harness, till they had all the seeming of swimming in a river. Behind them, at the geepole, came Daylight, hidden to the knees by the swirling frost through which he appeared to wade. He was the same old Daylight, with lean and tired-looking, and his black eyes were sparkling and flashing brighter than ever. His parka of cotton drill hooded him like a monk, and fell in straight lines to his knees. Grimed and scorched by camp-smoke and fire, the garment in itself told the story of his trip. A two-months' beard covered his face; and the beard, in turn, was matted with the ice of his breathing through the long seventy-mile run.

He experienced a thrill of surprise as the roar of welcome went up and as every familiar detail of the Tivoli greeted his vision—the long bar and the array of bottles, the gambling games, the big stove, the welcher at the 'gold-scales, the musicians, the men and women, the Virgin, Celia, and Nellie, Dan MacDonald, Bettles, Billy Rawlins, Olaf Henderson, Doc Watson—all of them. It was just as he had left it, and in all seeming it might well be the very day he had left. The sixty days of incessant travel through the white wilderness suddenly telescoped, and had no existence in time. They were a moment, an incident. He had plunged out and into them through the wall of silence, and back through the wall of silence he had plunged, apparently the next instant, and into the roar and turmoil of the Tivoli.

He drew a deep breath and cried: "The winner pays, and I'm the winner, ain't I? Surge up, you-all Malemutes and Siwashies, and name your poison! There's your Dyea mail, straight from Salt Water, and no horseshoeing about it! Cast the lashings adrift, you-all, and wade into it!"

A dozen pairs of hands were at the sled-lashings, when the young Le Barge Indian, bending at the same task, suddenly and limply straightened up. In his eyes was a great surprise. He stared about him wildly, for the thing he was undergoing was new to him. He was profoundly struck by an unguessed limitation. He shook as with a palsy, and he gave at the knees, slowly sinking down to fall suddenly across the sled and to know the smashing blow of darkness across his consciousness.

"Exhaustion," said Daylight. "Take him off and put him to bed, some of you-all. He's sure a good Indian."

A few minutes later, Daylight was whirling around the dance-floor, waltzing with the Virgin. And small wonder it was that the Virgin yielded herself to his arms, as they danced dance after dance, and sick at heart at the knowledge that he found nothing in her more than a good friend and an excellent dancer. Small consolation it was to know that he never loved any woman. She was sick with love of him, and he danced with her as he would dance with any woman, as he would dance with a man who was a good dancer and upon whose arm was tied a handkerchief to conventionalize him into a woman.

At one in the morning he saw Elijah Davis herding Henry Finn and Joe Hines, the lumber-jack, toward the door. Daylight interfered.

"Where are you-all going?" he demanded, attempting to draw them to the bar.

"Bed," Elijah Davis answered.

"Got to," Joe Hines added apologetically. "We're mushing out in the mornin'."

Daylight still detained them.

"Where to? What's the excitement?"

"No excitement," Elijah explained. "We're just a-goin' to play your hunch, an' tackle the Upper Country. Don't you want to come along?"

"I sure do," Daylight affirmed.

But the question had been put in fun, and Elijah ignored the acceptance.

"We're tacklin' the Stewart," he went on. "Al Mayo told me he seen some likely lookin' bars first time he come down the Stewart, and we're goin' to sample 'em while the river's froze. You listen, Daylight, an' mark my words, the time's comin' when winter diggin' 'll be all the go. There'll be men in them days that'll laugh at our summer scratchin' an' ground-wallerin'."

Elijah laughed, gathered his two partners up, and was making a second attempt to reach the door.

"Hold on," Daylight called. "I sure mean it."

The three men turned back suddenly upon him, in their faces surprise, delight, and incredulity.

"G'wan, you're foolin'," said Finn, the other lumber-jack, a quiet, steady, Wisconsin man.

"There's my dawgs and sled," Daylight answered. "That'll make two teams and halve the loads; though we-all 'll have to travel easy for a spell, for them dawgs is sure tired."

COURT DECLINED TO ACCEPT BILL

Whitecap's Defense Given Time to Amend.

MISCONDUCT WAS ALLEGED

Defense in the Case of Silas Adams, Convicted Whitecap, Took Exceptions to the Manner in Which Lawyers Provided by State Presented Case to the Jury, but Court Could Not See Things in the Same Light.

Bloomington, Ind., February 12.—When the attorneys for the defendant in the Silas Adams whitecapping case filed bills of exception, with Judge Wilson, alleging misconduct on the part of the attorneys employed by Governor Marshall, considerable surprise was caused in the circuit court.

They argued before Judge Wilson that the state's attorneys were guilty of misconduct in their arguments before the jury in appealing to the venemoremen for a conviction on the ground that whitecapping ought to be stamped out, because it has existed in the hill sections of this county for thirty years, instead of appealing to the jury to decide the case in accordance with the law and evidence.

They assert that an appeal of this nature was prejudicial to the defendant to the extent that it prevented him from having a fair trial. They announced that they desire to have the bills placed in the record, after which they will make a motion for a new trial.

Judge Wilson declined to accept the exceptions as presented and the defendants were given time to amend them.

Confident Mystery Will Be Solved.

Indianapolis, Feb. 12.—The investigation into the death of Dr. Helene Knabe on the night of Oct. 23 is to continue. The committee of women from the Local Council of Women having charge of the raising of funds to carry on the investigation has placed the case in the hands of a detective agency, which is confident that the mystery will be solved.

Self-Defense Plea Sustained.

Columbus, Ind., Feb. 12.—Clyde Cooper, aged thirty-one, colored, on trial for the murder of Fred Brown, colored, was acquitted on a theory of self-defense. The trouble between the negroes started over a crap game here a few weeks ago, when Brown was shot to death by Cooper.

Lost Sleep Ten Years.

Any one who knows Mr. B. F. Sugg, of Tyner, N. C., will tell you that he speaks nothing but the truth.

Mr. Sugg has suffered greatly from sleeplessness and in a recent letter says: "For ten years I have suffered greatly from a nervous ailment which caused me to lose at least three hours of needed sleep every night."

"I tried everything I could find to get relief, and finally one bottle of Vinol gave me more relief than all other remedies. I am grateful to Vinol for my present good health."

Many persons who are in a nervous, run-down condition get so they cannot sleep, and this is almost certain to wreck their health unless the right steps are taken.

Our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, Vinol, builds up the body and nourishes the nerves with pure, rich blood, and makes it possible to get natural, restful sleep. We guarantee that Vinol will do you good (money back if it fails), and if you are weak, nervous and sleepless, you certainly should try Vinol. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Edicts Looking to That End Expected Today.

Peking, Feb. 12.—The official promise that edicts will be issued today which will enable the settlement of China's troubles to begin in earnest will probably be carried out. These will approve the terms of the Nanking republicans to the imperials and renounce the throne. They will also approve the republic plan and confirm the previous power conferred on Premier Yuan Shih Kai to establish a provisional republic in co-operation with the republicans at Nanking.

Later the board of foreign affairs will issue a circular to the legations announcing the change, and it is hoped that all the powers will immediately recognize the government.

CHINA'S CAPITAL

Location of Seat of New Government Now Causing a Hitch.

Shanghai, Feb. 12.—The negotiations between Premier Yuan Shih Kai and the Republican leaders for a definite settlement of the troubles in China are still hanging fire. The main difficulty seems to be as to the capital of the new government. Yuan Shih Kai insists that Peking shall be accepted, but the republicans will not agree to this. They prefer Shanghai, or Nanking, but may offer to compromise on Tientsin temporarily and leave the question of the location of the permanent capital to the decision of the national convention, which is to be called to frame a permanent form of government for China.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If your hair is losing color or coming out, start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and see what a change it will make in a few days' time.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

LINCOLN AND TAFT.

During the first nine months of 1864 all the anti-administration Republicans in the United States were sure that Abraham Lincoln could not be re-elected President.

The opposition to Lincoln's re-nomination was as strong and well organized as the opposition to Taft's re-nomination.

His own Cabinet was disloyal. Salmon P. Chase, his secretary of the treasury, was intriguing for the presidency. The Western radicals wanted Fremont, precisely as the Western radicals today are screaming for Roosevelt. Thad Stevens, who was the Republican leader of the House, was strongly opposed to Lincoln. Greeley, Wade and Davis were against him because they believed he would be defeated and that the election of a Democratic President would mean national disaster. Wendell Phillips wanted "a statesman and patriot" in place of Lincoln.

The New York Herald had suggested Grant's nomination and there was a strong sentiment in favor of the hero of Vicksburg. A mass meeting of the Fremont faction of Lincoln's opponents was held in Cleveland the week before the Baltimore convention. Its attitude toward Lincoln was similar to the attitude of the Roosevelt "progressive" Republicans toward Taft.

Even after Lincoln was re-nominated his campaign managers regarded defeat as probable. Lincoln himself shared their fears. As late as Aug. 23, 1864, he gave a sealed memorandum to Secretary Welles, which read as follows:

This morning, as for some days past, it seems exceedingly probable that this administration will not be re-elected. Then it will be my duty to co-operate with the President-elect so as to save the Union between the election and the inauguration, as he will have secured his election on such grounds that he can not possibly save it afterward.

Yet in spite of all this despondency Lincoln polled 2,216,067 votes to McClellan's 1,808,725 and had 212 electoral votes to McClellan's 21.

William H. Taft is not another Abraham Lincoln and 1912 is not 1864 but it is easily possible that the anti-Taft politicians of this generation may be no better prophets than the anti-Lincoln politicians of a preceding generation. Taft, like Lincoln, may be much stronger than he seems. Politics is full of surprises.

According to newspaper reports there is a strong probability that Senator L. E. Slack may within the next ten days get into the race for the Democratic nomination for governor. He has many admirers over the state that have been insistent that he should do so. He has some warm friends in Jackson county and as he is in the Fourth district, his entrance into the race would probably change the plans and attitude of many of the leading Democratic politicians of the district. Four years ago in the convention Slack was leading and seemed close to the nomination when the Taggart and Ralston forces threw their support to Marshall and nominated him. It might seem like retribution if now, with Ralston seemingly close to the goal, the Slack strength should rob him of the coveted honor.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

The nation today unites in doing honor to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. Each anniversary of his birth finds him more strongly entrenched in the love of the whole American people. As war time prejudices have been more and more wiped out and the greatness of the man, his unselfish and patriotic motives and labors and his wonderful character have been realized and appreciated more fully the love and reverence for Abraham Lincoln's memory has grown until he is almost deified in the hearts of the people. His life and accomplishments were such as to justify all the homage the American people and the liberty loving people of the whole world pay his memory.

SEEK INVESTIGATION OF LAW'S VIOLATION

Railway Trainmen Urge Strict Enforcement.

Indianapolis, Feb. 12.—The interstate commerce commission and the railroad commission of Indiana were appealed to for the strict enforcement of federal and state railroad laws by representatives of the Indiana Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who have concluded a two-day biennial session in this city. The Indiana commission members met with the trainmen and promised to investigate charges made of violation of the full-crew law. The legislative board of the trainmen was instructed to prepare the records of political candidates for distribution. Municipal ordinances regulating the blocking of railroad crossings were arraigned. The trainmen say it is impossible to cut the long trains used today. Railroad employees are fined for violation of the city ordinances and the hardships are attendant on the employees instead of the companies, the trainmen say.

Practically all of the legislative recommendations were indorsed. The recommendations were in regard to railroad regulation which would tend to better the condition of the trainmen.

"FRATS" BARRED

School Authorities at Indianapolis Issue an Ultimatum.

Indianapolis, Feb. 12.—Members of the senior classes of Manual Training and Shortridge high schools today were asked to sign statements that they do not hold and have not held membership in any high school secret society since Feb. 1, 1911.

Principals of the two high schools have received copies of the statements from the board of school commissioners and their distribution is part of the plan of the board to secure rigid enforcement of the state law forbidding Greek letter fraternities and sororities in the public schools. Should any member of the two graduating classes refuse to sign the declarations he will be denied his diploma.

The school commissioners have announced their determination to rid both schools of Greek letter societies.

Convict Attacks Warden.

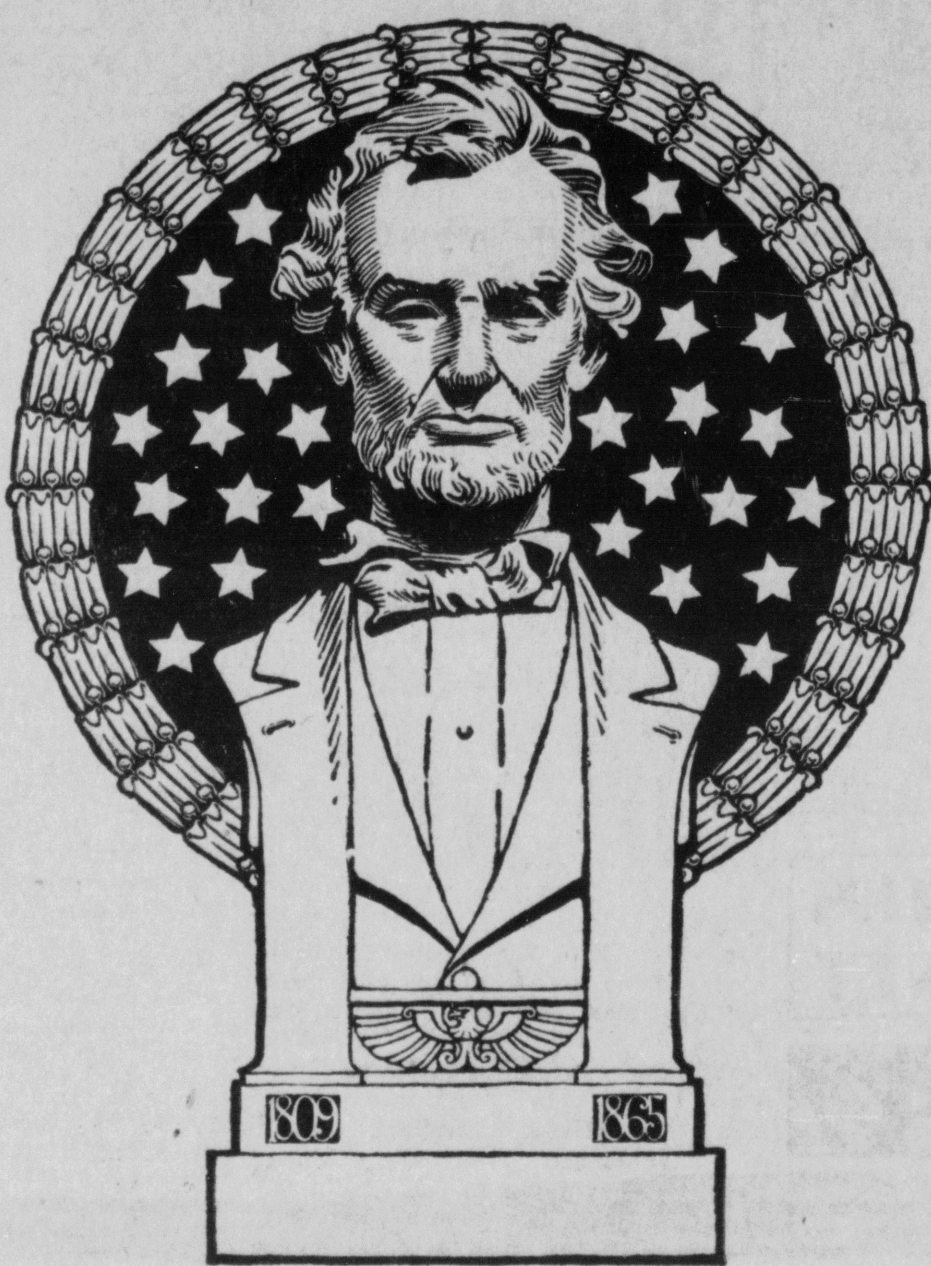

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 12.—Deputy Warden Davis of the state prison is dying as the result of a murderous attack made upon him in the prison chapel by Albert Prince, a negro convict. The assault occurred while the convicts were filing back to their cell corridors from chapel. Davis was standing by the door watching the men pass when Prince suddenly jumped out of line and, pulling a dirk, began slashing at him. Before the guards and other convicts could overpower him he had inflicted fatal injuries.

Poisoner Sentenced For Life.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 12.—Philip Burris has been sentenced to life imprisonment for poisoning Henry Royster. The jury accepted the commonwealth's charge that Burris sought with poisoned beer to remove all the Royster family except a daughter, Blanche, that he might marry her and get all the Royster property.

YOU realize that a truly great man does not finally belong to any party, or section; not even to any country. The truly great man belongs to the whole world; to humanity.

Lincoln's political career was partisan; sectional; it had to be. But the man himself was neither; and today all sections of the country, and of the world, acknowledge it; and honor his greatness.

There's nothing sectional, or local, or partisan about good clothes, either; well-dressed men look about the same here as anywhere else; and they want to look the same.

GOOD NEWS AWAITED WORKHOUSE INMATE

Wife of Hawley Heir Gets a Bit of a Surprise.

New York, Feb. 10.—To face the prospect of enjoying a fortune of something like $2,000,000, a little woman with tired eyes and a face upon which the struggle with want and care had left its marks, landed from the workhouse at Blackwell's Island. She is the wife of Frederick Crandall, the nephew of Edwin Hawley, who had been cast off by his uncle for her sake, and who is now to inherit with a brother and sister one-fifth of the railroad man's vast fortune.

Mrs. Crandall's sentence to the workhouse had come as a sort of climax to the hard luck that had been hers and her husband's from the day when his uncle, in high wrath, turned him out of his office and washed his hands of him. It was followed by the dispersal of their little family and the virtual breaking up of their home. The sudden transition from comparative poverty to affluence did not make Mrs. Crandall forget her children, and her thought seemed to be of seeing them. They have been staying with relatives at Chatham, N. Y. When she did talk about her husband's prospective fortune her chief interest seemed to be in the effect it would have on her children's future. There are five children, the oldest thirteen and the youngest two.

Mrs. Crandall was a telegraph operator in Hawley's office before her marriage, and went to the workhouse for fighting with a neighbor in a tenement house. Crandall has been keeping books in a stevedore's office.

M. D. Adams, a returned missionary from India, gave an interesting talk Sunday at the Christian church on the life and religions of the people of India and his work while there.

William Schroer Surprised.

About thirty-five relatives and friends gathered at the home of William Schroer on East Third street Sunday to remind him of his forty-eighth birthday.

He left home early in the morning and went to church. On his return he found his house full of people to welcome him. A big dinner was prepared for all.

The afternoon was spent with cards and conversation and guests and host enjoyed the day.

RED CROSS FOUNDER

Clara Barton Celebrates Ninetieth Birthday Anniversary.

Falling Health of Woman Who Conceived Idea of Aiding Wounded Soldiers During Civil War Prevents Celebration.

Washington—Miss Clara Barton, famous the world over as a Red Cross worker, reached her ninetieth birthday anniversary Christmas day. Congratulatory messages from friends and admirers in many parts of the world were received at the home of the famous nurse at Glen Echo, Md., a few miles from this city.

Friends and neighbors of Miss Barton contemplated having a celebration of her anniversary, but all plans in this direction were abandoned because of the precarious condition of her health.

Miss Barton has been failing ever since her serious illness last winter. Of the friends who called at Glen Echo only the most intimate were permitted to see her.

Few women of America have had a more active or more interesting career than Clara Barton. She was born in Oxford, Mass., December 25, 1821, the daughter of Capt. Stephen Barton, who fought under Gen. Anthony Wayne. In her early career she was a school-teacher. She founded a free school at Bordentown, N. J., which, beginning with six pupils, quickly grew until it numbered nearly 600. This work she gave up to accept a place in the patent office at Washington, which she held until the outbreak of the Civil war.

After giving up her government position Miss Barton advertised in a newspaper in Worcester, Mass., that she would receive stores and money for wounded soldiers at the front, which she personally would distribute. Her appeal was liberally answered, and she began her great relief work.

Clara Barton.

She continued with the soldiers in Virginia during nearly the entire period of the war, being head nurse of the hospitals among the armies on the James.

Miss Barton went to Europe in 1869, and was abroad when the Franco-Prussian war broke out. She lost no time in going to Strassburg and beginning the work of nursing the wounded soldiers. She proceeded later to Paris and rendered assistance in relieving distress at the time of the commune.

The American Association of Red Cross was formed in 1881, and Miss Barton was chosen its first president, which position she continued to fill until the reorganization of the society several years ago, when, realizing that she was no longer young enough to direct the affairs of the society, she yielded the management to other hands.

During the more than twenty years that Miss Barton sustained the movement in America, she visited numerous scenes of disaster, such as Johnstown after the flood, Galveston after the tidal wave, sections where forest fires had denuded the country and impoverished its people, or where the abundant waters of the Mississippi had overflowed, carrying death and desolation to thousands.

It is to be earnestly hoped that Miss Barton will live to witness many more Christmas days. She is comforted and sustained in her declining days by the prayers and blessings of many who have benefited by her gentle ministrations, and by the knowledge of good work accomplished.

CAN'T TELL HIS SONS APART

Marvelous Texas Twins Who Exchange Sweethearts and the Latter Don't Know It.

Fort Worth, Texas.—John Cobb Harris, a wealthy Mansfield farmer, came to Fort Worth to make a new will. Because he was unable to tell his twin sons apart. The will he destroyed gave John Harris certain property and Cobb, the other twin, other realty, but Harris had divided his property just opposite to his own desires.

Harris' sons are 22 years of age and among the most remarkable twins in the country. Both are six feet six inches tall and muscular. With their hats on their father cannot tell one from the other, but John is a little more bald than his brother.

The twins keep a common bank account and always speak of "our money," "our horse" and even "our girl," as they frequently play a joke on their sweethearts by exchanging them.

BLOW AT CAVALRY

House Resolution Aimed at Reduction of That Arm of the Army.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The Democratic house has made a raid on the cavalry branch of the army, voting into the army appropriation bill an amendment offered by Representative Hay of Virginia, reducing the regiments of cavalry from fifteen to ten, or by 3,980 men and 225 officers. Mr. Hay says the amendment will save the government $4,376,253 a year.

The amendment was not endorsed by the military affairs committee and was bitterly fought by the Republican side of the house. Despite this it was adopted, but it undoubtedly will be the subject of prolonged discussion when the army bill is reported from the committee of the whole in the house next week. Mr. Hay, in urging the amendment, declared that the United States army was too heavy in cavalry regiments, having fifteen regiments in that arm to thirty regiments of infantry, or one-half. In the British army the cavalry constitutes only one-sixth of the infantry.

Indian Killed on Track.

Near Rochelle, Ill., an Indian went to sleep on a railroad track and was killed by the fast express. He paid for his carelessness with his life. Often it is that way when people neglect coughs and colds. Don't risk your life when prompt use of Dr. King's New Discovery will cure them and so prevent a dangerous throat or lung trouble. "It completely cured me, in a short time, of a terrible cough that followed a severe attack of Grip," writes J. R. Watts, Floydada, Tex., "and I regained 15 pounds in weight that I had lost." Quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at The Andrews Drug Co.

Curate's Dilemma.

Two curates, one a rather good-natured fellow, the other the opposite, lived together. The good-natured one went out for a walk and met a poor man, who asked him for assistance. The curate said he was only poor himself, but if he had a coin in his pocket the man should have it. Lo and behold, when he pulled his hand out of his pocket he showed a half dollar, which he did not know about, and gave it to the man, thinking he had done an act of kindness.

When he got back to his lodgings he told his fellow-curate of the experience. His fellow-curate heard the story out, and when he had finished replied:

"You need not be surprised at all; you have got my trousers on!"

The Trials of a Traveler.

"I am a traveling salesman," writes E. E. Youngs, E. Berkshire, Vt., "and was often troubled with constipation and indigestion until I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills, which I have found an excellent remedy." For all stomach, liver or kidney troubles they are unequalled. Only 25 cents at The Andrews Drug Co.

Two Men Crushed to Death.

Richmond, Ind., Feb. 10.—Charles Klefer, aged thirty-five, and William Summers, aged thirty-seven, members of the wrecking crew that had come from Peru to clear away the debris resulting from a freight wreck on the C. & O., were in the act of attaching a hawser to a derailed box car when a cut of cars was backed down on them. Both men were crushed to death.

FOR INJURED WORKMEN.

If a workman in a factory in Missouri gets caught in a machine and loses an arm, he may sue for damages, hiring a lawyer on a percentage basis. In the course of years he may get a verdict, says the Kansas City Star. The money that finally comes to him is only a fraction of the amount awarded. Meanwhile the courts are clogged with personal injury cases. In the state of Washington Mr. J. A. Harzfeld, president of the public utilities commission, points out, the injured workman is at once paid a definite sum out of a fund collected by the state. He needs no lawyer. He gets all there is coming to him and he gets it without delay. That is the result of the Washington workmen's compensation act, which was signed last March. Incidentally, it is refreshing to note the opinion of the Washington supreme court in sustaining the act after the New York court of appeals had held a somewhat similar law unconstitutional. The opinion, written by Judge Fullerton, considers the New York decision and says: "Notwithstanding the decision comes from the highest court of the first state in the Union and is supported by the most persuasive argument, we have not been able to yield our consent to the views there taken."

The search continues for a cheap paving material capable of withstanding the wear and tear (specially the tear) of automobiles. For the less used highways several fairly satisfactory ways have been found to hold the broken stone in place, but in places where traffic is constant and fierce the problem is not so simple. In the Bronx 18 different kinds of pavement have been laid in the hope of finding something both lasting and cheap enough for ordinary roads. Some were found worthless, while others have been standing the test thus far fairly well. An analysis of the bituminous binders used was made by the United States office of public roads, and levels were taken to ascertain the amount of wear. On main roads where traffic is heaviest it may prove cheapest in the long run to put in a permanent pavement of brick, wood blocks, or asphalt, but for highways at large the cost would be prohibitive, and a satisfactory binder is still looked for.

The final settlement of the so-called German potash dispute out of court, so to speak, is a decided triumph for sane diplomacy. Those who may recall the histrionics which attended the discussion of this question nearly a year ago, the hysterical demand for a tariff war with Germany, the impassioned denunciation of Germany and the appeals to the department of state to wield "the big stick" may be surprised to find the announcement of a final settlement, apparently satisfactory to all concerned, in a brief cablegram from Berlin.

Laborers from the south of Europe, it is said, are peculiarly liable to rheumatism in Chicago, and some of them, to avoid it, go elsewhere in winter time, neglecting, however, to take their wives and families, who remain behind to become charges upon the county. The authorities will do well to either supply a rheumatism cure or inflict punishment for wife desertion.

New York is worried over the case of a woman who goes around proposing marriage to every man she meets. If she merely had some scheme whereby she could take his money from every man she met New York would not consider her case remarkable.

Half a play by Sophocles entitled "Ichneutae" has been discovered in a Greek town called Oxyrhynchus. But probably it will not have any effect on the receipts from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "East Lynne."

There is nothing so very strange in the fact that a Massachusetts minister has left the pulpit to go into the coal business. He is preaching the doctrine that it is better to have a fire here than hereafter.

A woman has divorced a man because he was merely ornamental. She referred to him as her "bric-a-brac" husband, and back he went on the shelf.

KING PLAIN CITIZEN

Spanish Monarch Acts Like Ordinary Man Occasionally.

When on Vacations at His Summer Residence Alfonso Talks, Walks, Rides and Mingles Generally With the People.

San Sebastian, Spain.—At this beautiful northern coast resort of Spain King Alfonso XIII enjoys life in his boyish, free fashion. Imagine a great round bay so locked in that its waters are a pond. High around its edges circle the villas of the rich, while along the sandy shore the Royal Yacht club and bath houses adjoin private beaches next to the great hotels and the public promenade.

Along the sands the public bath houses and gay tents flash all colors, fairly soaked in sunlight, even in late autumn. The stone promenade, bordered by shade trees and forged from balustrades, continues round the bay, through gorgeous parks and gardens to the public gambling halls, with the marble terraces and flowers, restaurants and cafes of one of the most luxurious casinos of Europe. Back of all this is the modern built town of wide, shady streets, parks and monuments in bronze and marble, rich shops, cafe terraces and flaunting awnings, street sprinklers, gushing fountains and that mixed perfume of orange peel, violets and tuberose that marks the south of Europe.

Chief of the villas perched high around the bay is the king's Miramar palace, half hidden among its forests. At night any traveler can lose himself in its winding alleys, lighted by 900 electric lamps. Anyone who has been there must have thought how easy it would be for armed conspirators to enter the park and take the palace by surprise. The guard at the gate is composed of three men of the Minarets corps. At the wide door of the palace the only sentry is an old veteran, wearing many decorations, but unarmed. The idea generally held that the king of Spain lives surrounded by an army to protect his life is absurd. The "Alabarderos"—mounted escort—and the large military staff is regularly invisible in its barracks behind the palace and exists merely to satisfy court protocol. When the royal family enjoys its home life in the evenings after audience hours are over, it is no more protected than any other well-to-do family of San Sebastian.

Every day while in residence at San Sebastian, the king, unaccompanied by soldiers, on foot, on horseback, or in auto or carriage, can be seen going about. We met him once in a lone spot of the Corniche, writes a traveler, attempting to clean three plugs that had got choked by soot. My French friends stopped and asked the customary, "Anything we can do?" "These plugs are choked with soot," replied Alfonso. His chauffeur was respectfully offering new ones, when our French friend—a pure automobile crank like the king—explained that he could clean those plugs by backing rapidly up the slope.

"That is what I said," cried Alfonso. "Oust! tumble in!" and, with a very tricky swing, he got his weight on the crank and started the heavy motor before his chauffeur knew what he was up to, jumped in beside his only companion, a silent military man, and began backing up the slope at second speed.

"Now that is just the type of automobile crank who will not let his chauffeur do a thing," expatiated the Frenchman. From this time Alfonso nodded to us with a smile, content that here were three men and a lady who had seen him, Alfonso, acting as a man.

Pool Ball in His Mouth.

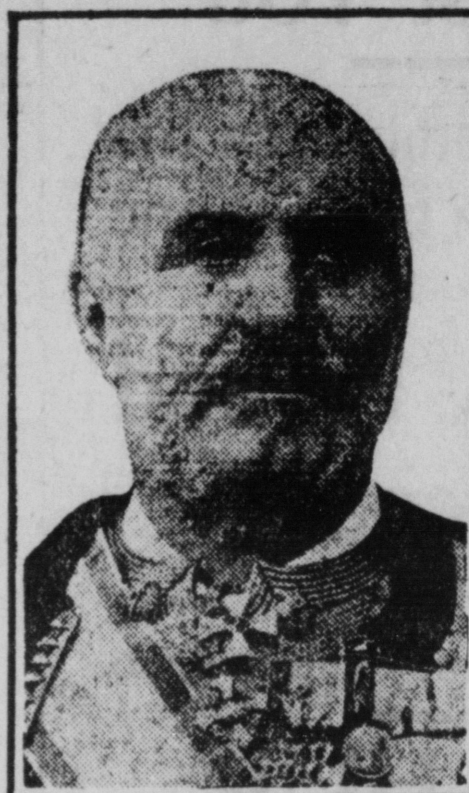

Philadelphia.—Robert Wilson, a youth living at 1330 North Eighth street, made a bet with several companions that he had the largest mouth in the crowd, and to prove his assertion thrust a pool ball between his jaws.

He won the wager, but lost several teeth, for the ivory ball fitted his mouth so well that it took two hours' work on the part of physicians at the Children's Homeopathic hospital to remove the ball, and that was accomplished only after the forceps had been used.

Wilson walked to the hospital with his friends. The physicians first told him to force the ball out with his tongue. His efforts were unavailing and the pain from his distended jaws so great that it was determined to sacrifice five front teeth.

KING NICHOLAS

Report of Montenegro Ruler's Flight Denied.

Vienna, Feb. 12.—The story telegraphed from Cetinje that King Nicholas had fled because of a military revolt, is not true. The king is at St. Petersburg, where he went to carry out a visit to the czar which had been arranged for some time ago.

URGES A NEW POLICY IN THE PHILIPPINES

Prof Piper Gives Results of Observation.

Washington, Feb. 12.—An interview denouncing the American policy in the Philippines has been given out by Prof. Charles V. Piper of the department of agriculture, who has just returned from the Orient, where he spent thirteen months making investigations as to the agricultural development and possibilities of the Philippines and other Pacific islands. An "erroneous and effeminate" policy pursued by the United States is retarding the agricultural development of the Philippines, which, Prof. Piper says, are among the richest and most fertile islands in the world. Prof. Piper said:

"I see little hope of any rapid improvement in Philippine agriculture unless we adopt a policy that will make them prosperous. I doubt if they are any better off in this respect than under Spanish rule. Under the delusion that we are proving to the world that our motives are purely altruistic, we are virtually forbidding American enterprise to develop the richest islands in the world.

"I am convinced that this is a great mistake, not only because it is an effeminate, un-American policy, but because it is keeping material prosperity from the Philippines which it is our duty to promote quite as much as their educational and political welfare."

GULF BOILING

Strange Phenomenon Reported by Seamen Putting in at Galveston.

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 12.—A lake of boiling water in the Gulf of Mexico is reported by vessels having passed through and around the strange phenomenon at a point in the western gulf about 240 miles south by east of the Texas coast. The area of hot water was variously given as ranging from a half to a mile in circumference, and seamen claim it is unquestionably due to an explosion on the bottom of the sea of some volcanic eruption, as the water appears to be greatly agitated in several places within the hot lake.

Saloon Keeper Killed and Robbed.

New York, Feb. 12.—As he tried to wrest a revolver from a holdup man, Patrick Burns, a Bronx saloon keeper, once chief of police in Toledo and in Findlay, O., was shot and instantly killed. His bartender, Frank Newberger, trying to come to his assistance, was beaten unconscious with the butt of a revolver by a companion of the holdup man, after which the two rifled the cash drawer and escaped.

Serious Deluge in New York.

New York, Feb. 12.—Two thirty-six-inch water mains burst at Ninety-seventh street and West End avenue, drowning twenty-four horses in a cellar stable on Ninety-sixth street, and bursting a gas main, the fumes of which overcame several persons in apartments and private houses nearby.

Hints at Foul Play.

Mt. Pleasant, Pa., Feb. 12.—Following the deathbed declarations of May Halley, a sixteen-year-old telephone operator, Coroner McMurray's deputies are searching for James Keller, aged fifty, a wealthy world-wide traveler. Miss Halley died under conditions suggestive of foul play.

Victims of Defective Gas Pipe.

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 12.—Miss Marie Seliger, aged twenty-seven, was asphyxiated and her companion, Miss Margaret Mills, aged twenty-three, was so badly affected by gas that she died. A defective pipe permitted gas to enter the room, overcoming them.

A WORD WITH WOMEN.

Valuable Advice for Readers.

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." When the kidneys get congested and inflamed, there are many aches and pains and the whole body suffers.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. They can't get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have brought sound backs and new life and strength to thousands of suffering women. They are endorsed by thousands—endorsed at home—Read this Seymour woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. George Cozine, 24 Mill St., Seymour, Ind., says: "My back is a great deal better since I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the pain across my kidneys has disappeared. My kidneys have also become normal and the other symptoms of kidney complaint have disappeared. I consider it no more than my duty to advise other persons afflicted with kidney complaint to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

COULDN'T GET UP

Woman Prefers Prison to Rising In Time to Send Children to School.

Indianapolis, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Ella Frantz, thirty-seven years old, the mother of two girls, was sentenced to women's prison in juvenile court because she had persistently refused to send her children to school. Mrs. Frantz was fined $25 and sentenced to serve three months.

Mrs. Frantz said in court that she could not get up in time to get them ready for school. The children have been in school less than thirty days since September, according to the records of the truancy department.

If the husband cannot find a housekeeper to care for the children they will be sent to the Indianapolis Orphan's home at his expense. At all times he has shown a willingness to aid the court in the proceedings, and he has said that he desired to educate his children, even if it were necessary to send his wife to prison to do it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Governor Goes Visiting.

Indianapolis, Feb. 12.—Governor and Mrs. Marshall have departed for Scottsdale, Ariz., to visit Mrs. Marshall's mother, Mrs. W. E. Kimsey, who spends her winters in Arizona for the benefit of her health. The governor expects to be away about two weeks.

Entire Train Goes in Ditch.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 12.—Wabash passenger train No. 3 on the Montpelier division went into a ditch at Thurman, ten miles east of here, when a bar dropped from the engine. The entire train went into the ditch, but none of the passengers was injured.

Flying Men Fall

victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles just like other people, with like results in loss of appetite, backache, nervousness, headache, and tired, listless run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that as T. D. Peebles, Henry, Tenn., proved. "Six bottles of Electric Bitters" he writes, "did more to give me new strength and good appetite than all other stomach remedies I used." So they help everybody. It's folly to suffer when this great remedy will help you from the first dose. Try it. Only 50 cents at The Andrews Drug Co.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAYIncident of the Last Illness of General Grant.

On Receiving His First Month's Pay as General on Retired List He Promptly Distributed the Sum Among His Servants.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

The last official act of President Arthur was the signing of the bill on March 4, 1885, by which General Grant was restored to the retired list of the regular army with the rank of general and with full pay. This made it possible for General Grant, then in his last illness, to rely upon an income of about $10,000 a year, and that was all the income he could look forward to with assurance, for at that time there was no certainty that he would be able to finish his personal memoirs for publication.

About a month later General Grant suffered from the first of several severe relapses, each one of which, it was feared, would terminate his life. He was prostrated by the agonizing pain, and though by sheer force of will he maintained outwardly a wonderful mental composure and moral courage, those about him believed that they detected evidences that the sufferer's stout heart failed him for a time.

Just at this time the morning's mail one day brought him a letter from Washington. With feeble hands, and yet with somewhat eager eyes, he opened the letter. It was found to contain a United States treasury draft for the amount of the first month's payment under the act restoring him to the army on the retired list as general with full pay. The amount was approximately $1,000.

Summoning his friend of many years, ex-Governor Chaffee of Colorado, to his side, General Grant pointed to the draft. Then he wrote on the pad of paper that he kept at his elbow: "I wish you would take this draft to a banker friend of mine," naming him. "I know he will cash it. And when he has done so I wish you would bring the money to me as soon as possible."

General Chaffee took the draft, saying that he would get it cashed immediately. General Grant smiled up at him in thanks, and then once more wrote on the pad:

"I am sure that my friend will cash the draft, although I have never had any banking dealings with him. Tell him I want it in bills of small denominations. We need the money in the house, and first of all I want to pay the servants what we owe them, for they have been very kind and patient."

When Governor Chaffee appeared before the banker a little later and explained his mission, he was barely able to restrain his tears. "It was the most pathetic sight I have ever seen," he said. "There that great man sat, suffering intense agony, and yet his first thought, despite his pain, was for others, his servants. And it was all the more pathetic to me because I have known all along that he has been hard pressed for ready money; but his sense of honor is so keen, and until now he felt so small an assurance that he would be able to repay any debt, that it was useless for me to ask him to accept a loan, however small."

The banker gladly cashed the draft in the manner General Grant had requested, and Governor Chaffee hurried away. Later he reported to the banker:

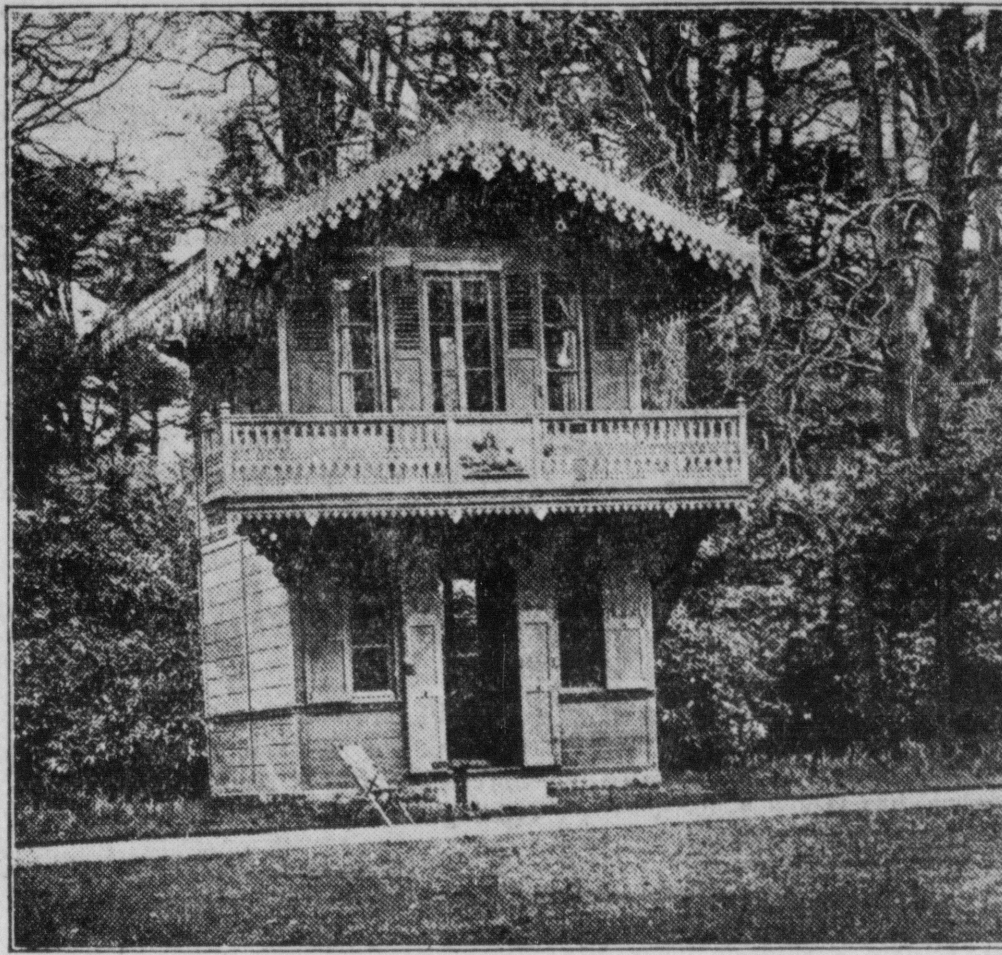

"When I placed the money in the general's hands, he looked freer from care and worry than he had for weeks. He smiled his thanks to me, and he wrote on his pad that I should thank you most heartily for your kindness. Then he took from the money a sufficient amount to pay the servants what had been owing them for some time and directed that it be distributed among them at once. That act was characteristic of the man—it showed, in a small way, the real nobility of his character."

Greatly to his peace of mind, General Grant a little later received assurances that, in addition to the pension which Mrs. Grant, as his widow, would receive under the act restoring him to the retired list of the army, his personal memoirs would bring so large a sum to Mrs. Grant that the income from it would make her comfortable for life.

Silencers Good and Bad.

The silencer for firearms invented by Hiram Percy Maxim appears to have proved itself a practical proposition and to be growing in use. It is reported from Hartford that a special market has been found for it among target shooters and that shipments are being "made all over the world, recent ones being to the Fiji Islands," etc. There is a sinister connotation to mention of silencers in the Fiji Islands which recalls the fears which were expressed when the invention was first made public that it would lend itself to target practice on human beings. But, however, the use of the invention may develop in connection with firearms, it is at least comforting to learn that a silencer for motorboats and motorcycles has also been invented and that preparation for its manufacture in quantity are now under way. It would be a boon of consequence if the principle could be extended to include a thousand disturbing noises.

Charles Dickens' Chalet

This being the centenary of the birth of Charles Dickens, added interest is given to this picture of the Dickens chalet, in which he did much of his writing. It was formerly at Gads Hill, but now is at Cobham Hall, Kent, having been presented by the Dickens family to the earl of Darnley. Dickens' favorite chair can be seen outside the door.

KANSAS METHOD OF DUNNING

A young merchant in Smith Center, Kan., has found a way to make slow paying customers dig up. For a long time he sent out monthly duns urging prompt settlement, but little if any attention was paid to them. Getting impatient he sent an enlarged bill to an old lady who had been owing him three or four months and the effect was almost magical. She came in snorting mad the next day with the bill in her hand and the way she went after the young man for trying to swindle her brought the blushes to his cheeks. He finally made her believe the error was unintentional, and she settled on the spot for what she owed. Since then the young man sends out bills of about twice their proper size to slow creditors and he says it brings them in every time and invariably mad all over at his attempt to cheat them. He says you can even make a deadbeat wrathful by dunning him for a larger amount than he owes.

Turns Life Upside Down

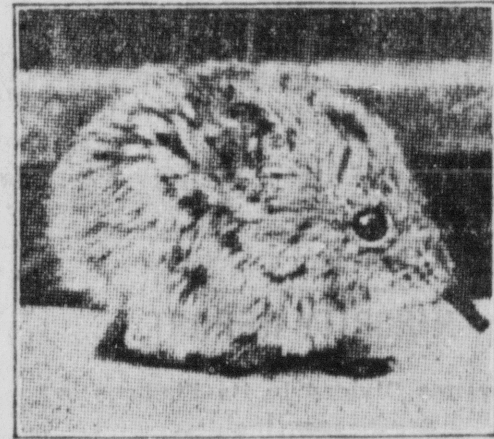

Vienna can boast of a curious eccentric, who turns life upside down, a rich young Pole, who lives in sumptuous style, but always summons his servants by bugle call. His favorite pastime is driving an omnibus, attired like an ordinary busman, and though he is said to spend a fortune each year in clothes, he wears no garment until it has been worn by his valet. He has astonished the guests at a ball by appearing in a costume of pure white, save for the shirt and tie, which were black. To complete his oddities, when dining, which he invariably does alone at a table d'hôte, he reverses the usual order, beginning his meal with the sweets and ending with the soup.

BIRDS AND GRASSHOPPERS

A strong protest is being made in South Australia against the continual slaughter of such birds as the ibis, the egret, cranes and spoonbills to supply the demands of milliners. The slaughter is objectionable not only as destroying some of the most beautiful and interesting creatures of nature, but, according to the Journal of Agriculture, also as rendering South Australia ever more prone to plagues of grasshoppers, and is a prime cause of the decline of its fish resources. As the wading birds disappear the crustaceans that destroy fish spawn increase in multitude.

AN UNUSUAL REQUEST

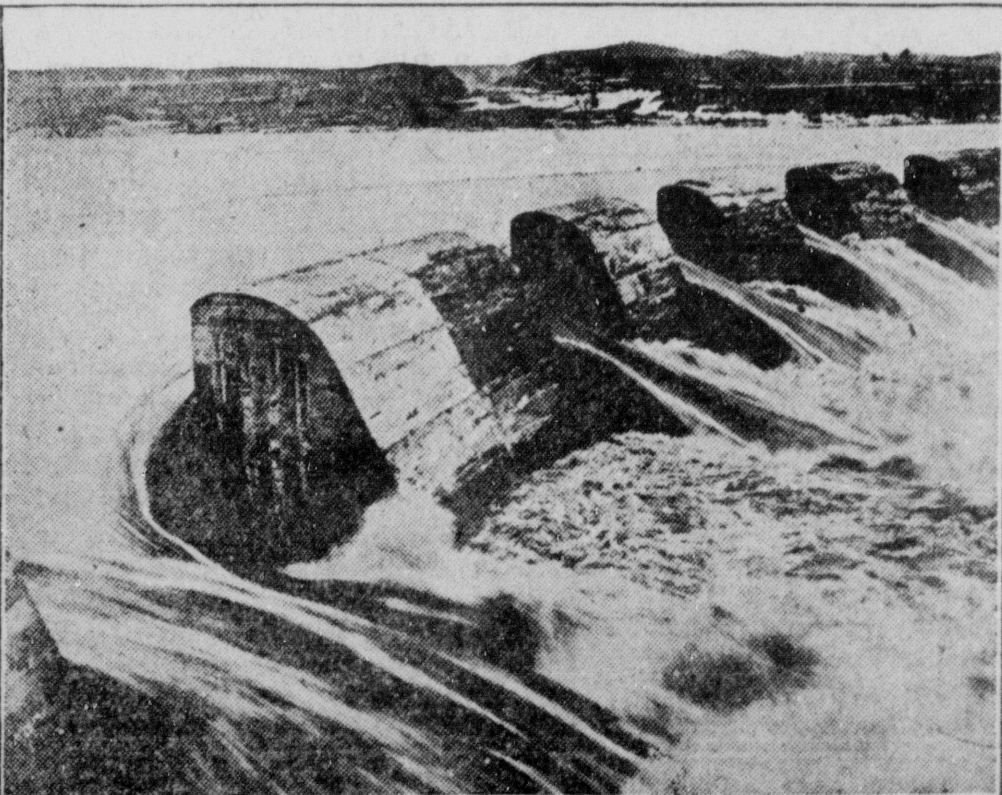

Among the most eccentric of testators are those who make bequests of their bodies. In 1871 a Mr. Sanborn of Medford, Mass., bequeathed his body to Professor Agassiz and Oliver Wendell Holmes, representing that it should "be prepared in the most scientific manner known to anatomic science," and placed in the museum at Harvard. He also directed that his skin should be made into two drumheads, to be presented to his "friend and patriotic fellow citizen, Warren Simpson," on condition that he beat on them the national air of "Yankee Doodle" at the foot of the monument on Bunker Hill at sunrise every 17th of June. On the drumhead was to be inscribed Pope's "Universal Prayer," and on the other the Declaration of Independence.

ELEPHANT SHREW IS RARE.

The London "Zoo" has received from South Africa three elephant shrews, the first of their kind to be seen in Europe. This animal, which is about the size of a dormouse, has an elephant-like trunk on the snout and its hind legs are extremely long and suggest those of a kangaroo.

TWO EGGS IN TWO MINUTES

Chicken experts say a thing happened at the poultry show of the National Fanciers' club in Indianapolis which they have never known to happen before. A Buff Orpington hen laid two eggs in less than two minutes. There was no room for doubt that this actually happened as a fancier of reputation was standing by and saw the thing done with his own eyes. The first egg was perfectly formed with a hard shell. The second egg was large as the first, but had a soft shell. The chicken men believe this hen understood that she was on exhibition and must make a record.

Remarkable Crescent Dam

The crescent dam pictured above is a vital part of the great New York state barge canal, and was erected to impound the waters of the upper Mohawk river. A remarkable feature are the gaps in it, which can be closed. When this is done the top of the dam is extended to its thousand-foot length and a reservoir is formed four miles long and two miles wide with a capacity of 20,750,000,000 gallons.

GOT IN WRONG WITH WRIGHT

Either Never Write, or Never Lie About Your Writings, Is Moral of Murdock's Experience.

Back in the days when Wilbur Wright was demonstrating that the art of splitting clouds wide open with an aeroplane was both easy and practical, Victor Murdock, who owns a newspaper in Kansas and occupies a seat in congress, wrote for his paper a three-column article, praising Wright in glowing, glittering, and dazzling phrases.

Shortly after that Murdock, who, for political and other reasons, always says he never writes anything that appears in his paper, attended an aeroplane meet, and was approached by a quiet young man who was evidently a newspaper correspondent.

"Mr. Murdock," said this intruder, "I enjoyed immensely your article on aeroplanes, and I was wondering if you would tell me how you—"

"No, no! And again, no!" exclaimed Murdock, "I never write anything, and I never give interviews on what appears in my paper."

Whereupon the young man subsided into the crowd.

That night at a banquet given in honor of the aeronauts, Murdock was seated opposite Wilbur Wright, and in a break in the chorus of talk, Murdock leaned across the table, and said urbanely:

"Mr. Wright, I hope you saw that article I wrote and published in my paper about you, and—"

He got no further. Right there was the blowup, the crestfallen finish. Wilbur gave him a stony stare, and in the flash of a moment Murdock had recognized in Wright the man who had accosted him earlier in the afternoon.

"The moral of that," said Murdock, in telling the story, "is: Either never write, or never lie about your writings."—Twice-a-Month Popular Magazine.

AN IDLE SON OF THE RICH

How Father's Money Was Ruining Stomach and Digestion of a Pampered Fool.

Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health, told of a young man he saw in a dining car on a recent trip from New York.

"He was evidently one of the idle sons of the new and very rich," said Dr. Hurty. "He sat at the table across from me, and I prolonged my dinner just to watch him. He first had a cocktail and then some raw oysters, a 'special pick,' for which he tipped the steward generously. Received, he salted them heavily, then peppered them as heavily. Then he covered them with tabasco sauce and finally with catsup. With these he ate some dill pickles. Then he went down the course with two kinds of meat, done very rare; two kinds of salads, with pastries, hot bread and two kinds of dessert, and much more, all served in courses, topped off with a pot of two or three cups of coffee, followed by a cigarette. He was young and his face was covered with those little pimples, signs that the dinner he was consuming was not an unusual one.

"All the while he watched me and others in the car from the corner of his eye, to see how we were taking him. I don't know whether he read my thoughts or not. A half dozen older men, myself included, who had learned from experience, were eating simple food, and pitying the poor, pampered fool whose father's money was ruining his stomach. Two of us left the dining car together. The other said to me:

"One grain of satisfaction you and I, who have to travel and eat on dining cars, can get from that. Either he will die early from that sort of thing, or he will be so laid up with stomach trouble that he can't travel."—Indianapolis News.

To Distill Ocean Water.

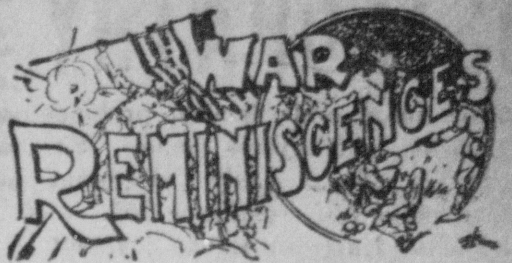

Santa Monica, Cal., is considering a unique plan for solving the serious water problem which it faces. The supply is already inadequate, and an application for a part of the Owens river from Los Angeles has not been granted. Now it is proposed to distill ocean water for domestic purposes, and the municipality may purchase the "Burning Mountain," several miles up the coast in the Santa Monica range, for use as a heating plant. It is believed the sea water could be carried through a "U" pipe deep to the hot interior of the smoking hill and distilled at practically no cost. Power might be produced, some engineers think, that would enable the municipality to maintain an electric lighting plant.

Short of Men.

Two Irishmen died, so the story ran. One went to heaven and the other didn't. Mike called down to Pat: "What ar ye doin', Pat?" "Shovelin' coal." "Ar ye workin' hard?" "Not very. We has shifts an' work only three hours a day. What ar ye doin' up there in hivin'?" "O'm sweepin' the golden stairs." "Ar ye workin' hard?" "Yis. O' hov to worrk eighteen hours a day. We're short of men up here!"

STORIES OF 28TH WISCONSIN

Regiment Had Many Interesting Experiences During War—Senator Davis Served as Lieutenant.

The Twenty-eighth Wisconsin was composed almost wholly of Waukesha and Walworth county men. Large numbers were recruited from among the farmer boys, though every village in the counties made generous contributions. The regiment completed its organization at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, and was mustered in about the middle of October, 1862.

Dr. James M. Lewis of Oconomowoc was the first colonel, writes Col. J. A. Watrous, U. S. A., in the Milwaukee Sentinel.

On December 20, 1862, the regiment left Milwaukee with orders to report at Columbus, Ky., reaching there two days later. It was at once sent to Union City, where it was expected it would be called upon to go into a fight, but returned to Columbus the next day, the enemy having taken his flight. Early in January, 1863, it went to Helena, Ark., where it became a part of the Thirteenth army corps, a member of the Second brigade. From this point it went on transports to St. Charles, Ark., where, with a force of cavalry and artillery, all under command of Colonel Lewis, it took charge of the place. It returned to Helena two weeks later and remained in camp there until February 24. The regiment did much extra duty, going on various raids, and was occupied for a long time in the hard work of constructing fortifications. Once when the Twenty-eighth went to the support of an Indiana regiment it was under the fire of a gunboat and a Confederate battery the better part of a day. It participated in the unsuccessful attack on Fort Pemberton, and after that returned to Helena. In a raid accompanied by cavalry and a section of artillery, commanded by Colonel Lewis, they met and drove back a large force of cavalry and destroyed an immense quantity of stores, returning to camp without loss. From April 8, 1863, until July 4, the regiment was in camp at Helena, and gave invaluable aid in fortifying the place. It also during that time participated in an expedition in the direction of Cotton Point, Ark.

Gen. Frederick Salomon, who had entered the service as colonel of the Ninth Wisconsin, was placed in command of the force at Helena, a fact which was very pleasing to the Twenty-eighth Wisconsin. General Salomon was entitled to credit for the thorough preparation that had been made for the battle which was fought on July 4. His small force, about 3,500 men, was so well protected and the town was so substantially fortified that he held it in spite of the desperate fight of an army of 15,000 Confederates and defeated the enemy, inflicting great slaughter. The Twenty-eighth received praise from the general for its brave and splendid conduct. It occupied an important position and held it against great odds.

In August, 1863, the Twenty-eighth accompanied Gen. Fred Steele on the Little Rock campaign. Colonel Lewis had command of the Second brigade and Lieutenant Colonel Gray commanded the regiment. It remained at Little Rock from September 10 until October 26 and then participated in the race after General Marmaduke's force, but turned back after reaching Rockport. At about this time the Twenty-eighth was ordered to join the command of Colonel Powell Clayton at Pine Bluff. Colonel Clayton, who afterward became a brigadier general, was so well pleased with the Wisconsin regiment that he kept it with him as long as possible and has never forgotten his association with it. Colonel Gray was in command of the post at Pine Bluff for some time. Six companies of the regiment participated in an expedition to destroy a bridge on the Saline river in March, 1864. While on guard at that point it was attacked by a Confederate force of 1,500. The Twenty-eighth men deployed and held the large force at bay until the balance of the Unionists were in position. The Confederates were repulsed with great loss.

VISITS 8,740 DOG GRAVES

Paris Eccentric Decorates All Headstones in Animal Cemetery—Headstone Bears Epitaph.

Paris.—The old saying that "every dog has his day" was exemplified in Paris this year. As most people know, there is a dogs' cemetery outside on a little island in the Seine between Asnieres and Clichy, called the Ile des Ravageurs. This dog necropolis, known to Parisians as Casopolis, has 8,740 dogs buried in it. Besides these there are 395 cats, 10 canaries, 7 horses, 6 fowls, 4 pigeons, 2 goats, 1 goose, a lion, a panther, and a calf. On All Saints' day, although flowers were scarce, every grave in the Canopolis—8,914 of them in all—was decorated by a kindly and eccentric lover of four-footed creatures with a little bunch of violets. On one stone over a grave are engraved the words, "Leo, police dog, killed on duty, November, 1910."

Carrier Pigeons Took a Message.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—Edward Carson looked out of the back window of his jewelry store at noon the other day and saw one of his best carrier pigeons hopping about the yard. Thinking the bird had escaped from the cote a few blocks from the store, he went out and caught it, intending to take it home. When he took it into the store he noticed a piece of paper fastened to one of its legs. The paper bore this message: "Telephone not working. Come to luncheon early. Company." He wrote this answer: "Count me in."

Luncheon was ready when he got home. Mrs. Carson found the bird hopping on the kitchen porch with the note

Knew What It Was.

It was a nice little home, built specially to the owner's plans, and had everything up to date, with a few reminders of the good old days. For instance, there was a sun dial placed at the foot of the garden.

On the first sunny day the owner compared his own reliable gold chronometer with Old Sol's timepiece, and found there was a difference of two hours. Obviously the figures on the sun dial had been misplaced. The builder was sent for and arrived.

"Have a look at that sun dial again," said the owner, significantly. "It makes the time 11:00 a. m., and as a matter of fact the correct time is 1:00 p. m."

The builder looked long and earnestly at his handiwork, and then slapped his leg.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, with a proud ring in his voice. "I see what it is, sir. There's something wrong with the sun."

Evidently Not.

SEES VISIONS OF INVASION

Governor of Chihuahua Makes a Plea for Peace.

POINTS TO UNITED STATES

Holding Up Before the People the Specter of an Armed Invasion From the North Which Will End in the "Enslavement" of Mexicans, Gonzales Urges the Rebels of Northern State to Lay Down Their Arms.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 12.—In an effort to have them lay down their arms and become peaceable citizens, the specter of American intervention is being held up to rebels in northern Mexico. Aureliano Gonzales, acting governor of Chihuahua, has issued a proclamation to the people of the revolting state and had it telegraphed to the most remote sections. The proclamation calls attention to the blood that was shed in the recent Madero revolution, "our late fratricidal war," he calls it, and then urges the people in the name of the fatherland that they love to lay down their arms and not again "augment the number of widows and orphans."

Referring to intervention, he says: "The United States have declared that we are an inferior race, incapable of self-government and unworthy to figure in the concert of free people, and are preparing a formidable army to invade and profane the sacred ground of our beloved country."

"If the voice of reason and patriotism does not assert itself, we will not only lose our ideals, but will be enslaved by a foreign invader and history will announce a tremendous fall that will burn upon the foreheads of our sons and inflict the infamous stigma of treason."

While this proclamation was being made public in the north Pino Suarez, the vice president, in Mexico City, was making a statement that intervention was most remote, in order to stem the tide of anti-Americanism that has been rapidly rising all over Mexico, and which the proclamation of the Chihuahua official will only fan to greater fury.

Abram Gonzales, constitutional governor of Chihuahua, who is in El Paso enroute to Chihuahua with cash for distribution among the dissatisfied people, expects to go to Chihuahua today. If he cannot persuade Pasqual Orozco to become governor he will remain and resign his cabinet position. If the rebels do not lay down their arms the government is planning to form a volunteer army if possible, to help fight them into submission.

MINORITY REPORT

Committee Divided in Its Findings in Stephenson Inquiry.

Washington, Feb. 12.—By a vote of 8 to 5, the senate committee on privileges and elections approved the report of the subcommittee, exonerating Senator Stephenson, Republican, of Wisconsin, from charges of corruption in connection with his election. Senators Clapp, Jones, Kenyon, Kern and Lea voted in the negative and will present a minority report to the senate. They took the position that the expenditure of $107,000 in the senatorial primary raised a presumption of wrongdoing on the part of Senator Stephenson, and that they failed to find in the evidence that such a presumption had been removed.

Poison in the Candy.

Minneapolis, Feb. 12.—Victims of a poisoned candy plot, three-year-old Bennie Reedy and Simon O'Malley, fifty years old, a hackman, are dead from eating arsenic in sweets placed at the door of the O'Malley home. Louis Spencer, who also ate the candy, is at death's door.

Brakeman Crushed to Death.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 12.—Earl R. Travis, twenty-six years old, a brakeman for the C. & E. I., was crushed by logs rolling off a car at Patoka, and died in a hospital here from internal injuries. His home was in Clay City, Ind.

Death of Lord Lister.

London, Feb. 12.—Lord Lister, the noted surgeon, is dead at the age of eighty-five. He became famous for the discovery of antiseptic system of treatment in surgery. He was a member of the Society of Friends.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

No case of contagious blood poison is ever cured until the last particle of the virus has been removed from the circulation. The least taint left in the blood will sooner or later, cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous and destructive symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored splotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. No other medicine so surely cures contagious blood poison as S. S. S. It goes down into the blood and steadily and surely drives out every particle of the infection. It absolutely and perfectly purifies the blood, and leaves this vital fluid as fresh, rich and healthy as it was before the destructive virus of contagious blood poison entered the circulation. S. S. S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and other blemishes, the hair stops coming out, the mouth and throat heal and when S. S. S. has cleansed the system of the poison no trace of the disease is left. S. S. S. cures contagious blood poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven for more than forty years. Book on this disease with suggestions for home treatment, and any medical advice sent free to all who write.
